

IRON RANGE RESOURCES & REHABILITATION BOARD

Who we are, and why we're here...

The Iron Range Resources & Rehabilitation Board (IRRRB) is a state agency established in 1941 to strengthen and diversify the economy of Northeastern Minnesota. The regional economy, fueled by the taconite mining and production industry, has additional strengths in manufacturing, timber, tourism and technology growth.

Our team of economic development professionals works with area partners to create new employment opportunities, while helping our existing business community prosper.

Working with the IRRRB is easy.

If you are interested in locating your business in Northeastern Minnesota, we'll work with you to access a variety of financial and technical business incentives including:
