Our specialized team for venture activities includes:

Jeff Sellner is a principal in the Technology and Emerging Growth Company Group. Jeff provides audit, tax and advisory services to software, technology and life science businesses, in addition to other emerging growth companies. He has experience advising companies raising debt and equity funding at various stages of growth and has assisted clients with acquisition and restructuring matters.

Jason Flattum is a tax principal in the LarsonAllen Manufacturing and Distribution Group. Jason advises clients with tax compliance, tax planning, analysis and research of technical tax issues and other day-to-day tax needs with a broad range of companies. He also has experience working with companies with mergers, acquisitions and reorganizations.

Hod Dahl is a principal in the Manufacturing and Distribution Group. Hod has over 20 years experience serving emerging market manufacturing, health care and technology driven businesses. In addition to his audit and corporate tax background, he has provided business advisory services in the areas of enterprise risk management, regulatory compliance including Sarbanes-Oxley, and litigation support.

Craig Arends is principal-in-charge of LarsonAllen's Transaction Advisory Services. He specializes in providing accounting and transaction structuring advice for leveraged recapitalizations, purchase accounting and SEC reporting, assessing quality of earnings and GAAP accounting. He has worked with management teams of venture and private equity-backed portfolio companies to complete add-on acquisitions and platform investments, plus his international experience includes seven years of working with foreign companies raising debt and equity.
